

April 10, 2013

It was announced by Professor Plummer of Bath university that Professor Yokota was the winner of Joseph Bramah Medal, IMechE 2011.

Joseph Bramah (1748-1814) is a famous inventor of England in 18 century. He invented for example, hydraulic press, lock system and so on. Bramah Medal is founded in commemoration of his distinguished achievement in 1964.

Professor S. Yokota was awarded the Joseph Bramah medal 2011 for his researches on Micro hydraulic actuators. He is first and only one winner in the Asian area.

As the chairman of the mechatronics, Informatics & Control Group of IMechE, professor Plummer kindly introduced at the banquet of ICFP 2013.

In detail;

<http://www.imeche.org/knowledge/industries/mechatronics-informatics-and-control/prizes-and-awards/joseph-bramah-medal>